TWO CAN PUSH HARDER THAN ONE

That is literally true when both are pushing in the same direction. It clearly states the case regarding the new idea of co-operative work between dealer and manufacturer for the pushing of goods advertised in the newspapers.

In this case both are pushing in the same direction towards increased sales and better service to the consumer.

It is the most practical mer-chandising idea that has been suggested in half a century and is another evidence of th great power peculiar to the newspapers of this country as a sales producing agency.

Advertisers long ago realized that the newspapers were the surest and most efficient adver-

But they did not begin to reach the great depths of productiveness which the newspapers afforded, until the possibilities of co-operative campaigning became paigning became apparent.

This year more articles of national reputation will be advertised in the newspapers than ever before, and in nearly every instance this will be backed up by earnest exploitation on the part of the local merchants. FIFTH CO. TEAM

Through investigations made by Coroner Franklin H. Brown on Tuesday the body found floating in the Thames river on Monday at Massapeag was identified as that of Carl Swedberg of Plainfield, which was the name shown on the immigration card and the registered letter receipt found in a pocket of the clothing.

The coroner learned that the man had been missing since Saturday, Nov. 29th, and that he was last seen alive in this city on that day, when he left a party of friends with whom he was attending a moving picture show.

In communication with Postmaster Leahy at Plainfield Coroner Brown learned that the man formerly lived there and worked in the mill. He has a brother there, and he boarded with the family of P. I. Hokanson. The brother and Mr. Hokason came here on Tuesday and identified the body.

What they told the coroner was that the dead man with his brother's family, and some other friends, came here from Plainfield on Saturday, Nov. 29, and spent the day here. About 5.30 o'clock Swedberg's brother and finding of the body in the part of the river where it was picked up strengthened the belief which he had always brother and family went home, leaving Swedberg and his friends attended a moving picture house which they said was on Water the notes.

At the close of the day it was stated that all but a very small fraction of the noteholders had agreed to the extension and that those who held out were only awalting action by the directors of Boston & Maine,

The time fixed for the extension, June 2, coincides with the maturity of $17,000,000 of six per cent. Boston and Maine notes. By that time it is hoped to have in operation a comprehensive reorganization plan, which will not only take care of the notes, but definitely define the road's status as well.

It is also expected that before the $17,000,000 note issue matures, planwill have been devised for the complete severance of the Boston & Maine from the New York, New Haven & Hartford system. status as well,
